We're About 9

- "The twenty-something threesome's abilities as songwriters and performers is downright superb. Their material is literate, tasteful and often charmingly wistful, and their musicianship and vocal harmonies are world class." WVIA-FM - George Graham, Program Director
- Find yourself bursting aloud with laughter, dazzled with thought-provoking metaphors, lifted to the heavens with soaring harmonies, and moments later with tears in your eyes, and you are likely enjoying the witty musicianship that is We're About 9.
- Formed in 1999, when Brian, Katie and Pat all stumbled upon the same open mic night in historic Ellicott City, Maryland, they quickly discovered their shared admiration for complex songwriting and wicked harmonies. As they grew as a trio and strengthened their unique sound, they won over audiences with their distinctive, edgy, fun and articulate arsenal of charm.
- Simultaneously playing and writing for a diverse, intelligent audience is what has given this trio a distinctive, edgy, fun, articulate, professional style.
